Few programs prepare students better for jobs in an array of industries than our Master of Science in Mathematics. Our graduates teach, work in industry and in government. And, many enter doctoral programs.

Our faculty represents a wide range of research areas including algebra, analysis, combinatorics, dynamical systems, geometry, information retrieval, Lie theory, linear programming and optimization, logic, mathematical biology, mathematical linguistics, mathematical physics, nonlinear waves, number theory, numerical analysis, partial differential equations, probability, representation theory, scientific computing, statistics, and topology.

ADMISSIONS CRITERIA
• Official transcripts from all academic institutions
• Official GRE scores
• TOEFL scores if your primary language is not English
• Two letters of recommendation
• Students are expected to have undergraduate courses in linear algebra, differential equations, abstract algebra and advanced calculus. These foundation courses can be taken at CofC prior to entering the program.
